

Warship Asset Management Alliance

Case study

Delivering complete asset management solutions

Babcock strives to safely deliver world-class warships on time, every time, and within budget, supporting the Royal Australian Navy to fight and win at sea.

Our through-life support, whether delivering a complex maintenance period, a system survey or a technical modification, is underpinned by deep experience in providing marine services to navies across the globe.

In Australia, Babcock enables the continued sustainment of the Royal Australian Navy's Anzac Class Frigates through the Warship Asset Management Agreement (WAMA). WAMA represents a strategic partnership between Babcock, BAE Systems, SAAB, and the Commonwealth of Australia for the total asset management of the Anzac Class Frigates. Together, the Alliance delivers materially seaworthy warships, driving long term efficiencies for the Royal Australian Navy.

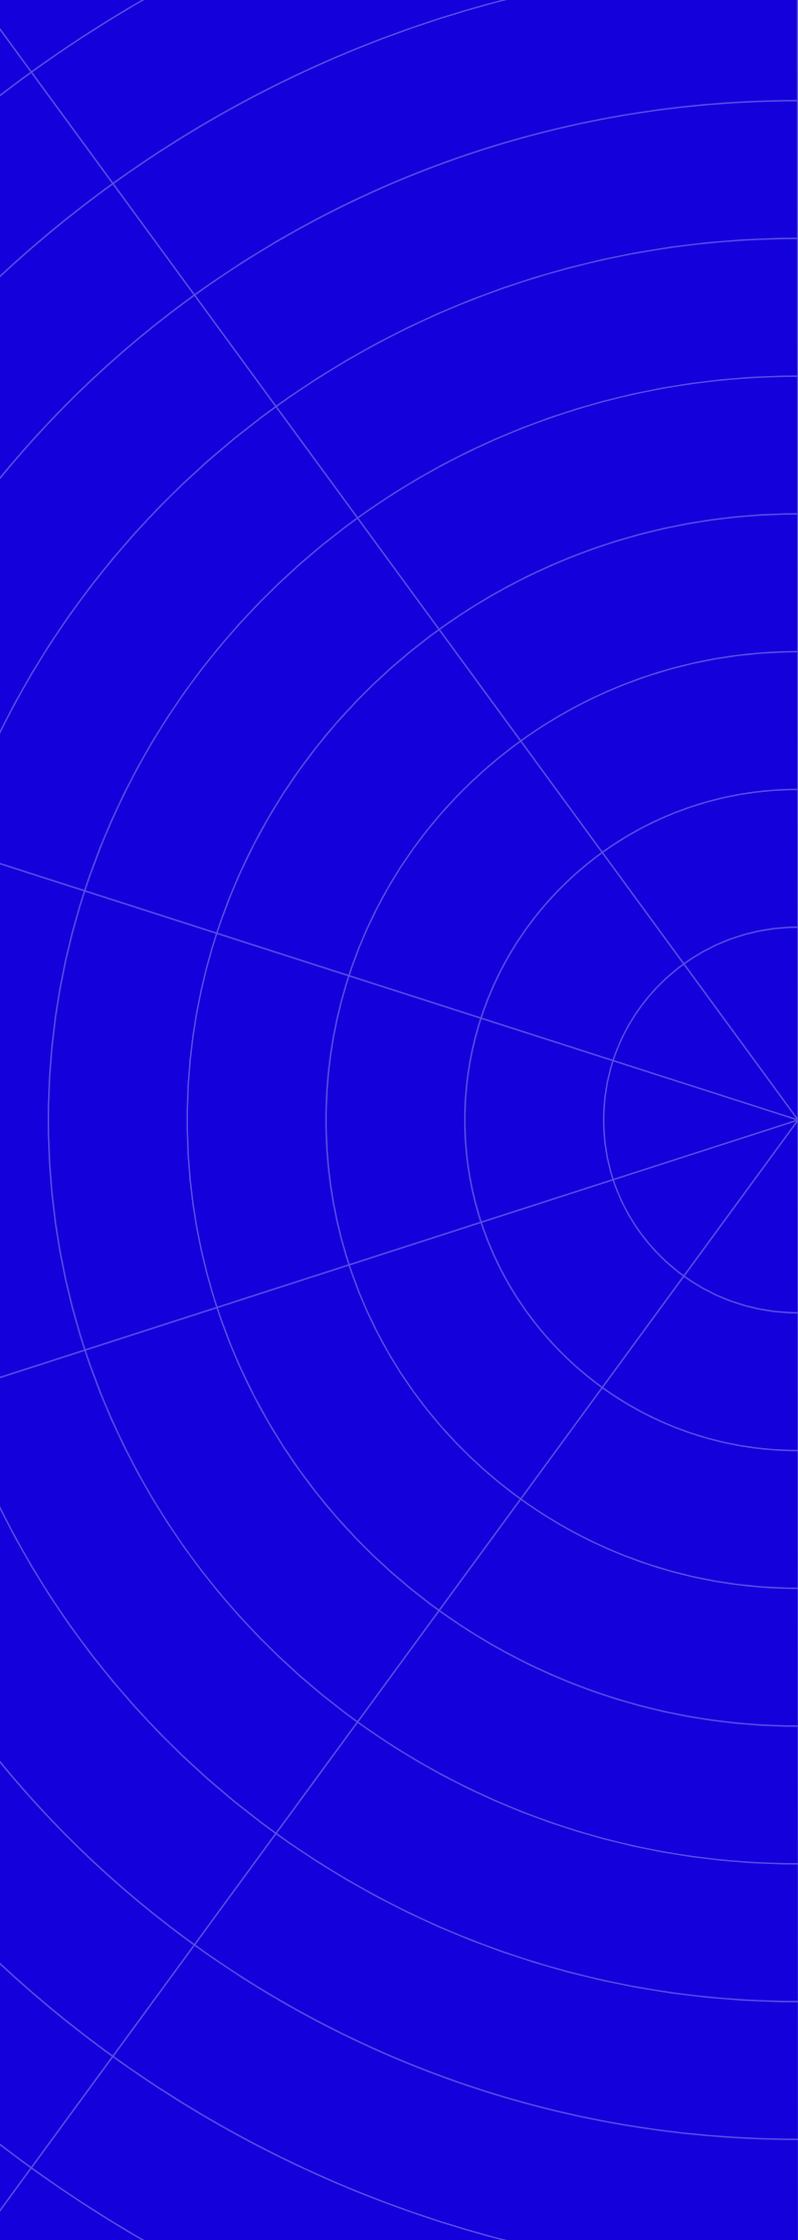

As part of the Alliance we provide a range of services in support of the Anzac class, including:

- Engineering support services
- Asset management services
- Maintenance support services
- Ship repair, refit, and refurbishment
- Supply chain management
- Procurement and logistics

At a glance:

- Total asset management of the Anzac Class frigates
- Supporting the Australian Navy's ANZAC frigates since 2010
- Babcock operates at 4 marine facilities across Australia and New Zealand
